SHOULD YOU VISITED IT?

Starting as a private reserve, Nonguén is now a national park with a mission to preserve one of the last native temperate forests in central Chile. Get yourself walking through the forest, surrounded by ancient trees like Olivillos, Boldo and maybe you could be lucky and even spot a pudú, the world's smallest deer. This is the perfect place for disconnecting from city life and reconnecting with nature so if any of this calls your attention you should definitely visit the park.

HOW TO GET THERE

- By car: The park is 30–35 min drive from downtown. Starting in Concepción, via Av. Collao → Av. Valle Nonguén, then 4.5km of gravel road with four small bridges before the entrance
- Public transport: Bus lines like 70F, 70G, 70H (and 170) can get you near the park area; expect a ~5km walk on unpaved roads from the stop to the gate

We recommend you looking for it on google maps.
